

The image shows the interior of Alice House, a neighborhood social. The space is characterized by its industrial aesthetic, featuring exposed brick walls and a ceiling with a network of black pipes and numerous warm-toned string lights. In the foreground, a dark wood bar with a light-colored countertop is visible, accompanied by several wooden bar stools. To the left, there are tables and chairs, some of which are occupied by patrons. A large window in the background provides a view of the street outside. The overall atmosphere is cozy and inviting.
